Dear My New Sixth Grade Student,

Hi there my new SIXTH grade student! I can't wait to see your smiling faces soon!

First, I hope you are enjoying your summer and are spending some quality time relaxing. So far, my summer has been filled with professional development, an online college class, an extended softball season, four books (for FUN:), Water Safari, a Field Day outing, mini projects around the house, and weekends spent relaxing at camp unplugging and four wheeling with my family.

Secondly, I wanted to remind you to look at the website for the school supplies that you will need for school this year. (Staff Directory/Neiss/ click on my google site for all of my up to date information).

Lastly, I would like to ask you a favor: START READING A BOOK! This is the best way to give your brain some exercise to start getting ready for school. Read it aloud in your room to practice fluency. At the end of each page, ask yourself: What did I just read? You should see a movie play in your head as you are reading. Reading is proven to be the

Most of all, I just wanted to let you all know that I am thinking about you and our year together. I can't wait! I look forward to getting to know you all better. I know sixth grade is a whole new experience. Please just be patient, be kind, be flexible, be open to new experiences, and most importantly come with a positive mind and attitude! I look forward to seeing you all at the community picnic and open house. If you have any questions at all-just ask or feel free to email me at: Aneiss@madisoncentralny.org

Sincerely,
Mrs. Neiss
